ACTION TAKEN TO SAFEGUARD BRIDGE ROADS

Increasing Number of Accidents on Both Sides of River Causes Action

TRAFFIC INCREASES

Road Between Hills West of City to Be Widened. Guide-posts to Mandan

Authorities on both sides of the river are taking action to prevent the rapidly increasing number of automobile accidents on the roads between Bismarck and Mandan, which have been a result of the vastly increased traffic over the new bridge. Several automobiles have tipped over on the Mandan side near "death curve," at the railroad track crossings there, and there have been some accidents in the low stretch of the road between two hills just beyond the edge of the piling in Bismarck. None have as yet resulted seriously. Last night a threshing machine separator went off in the low place between the hills just west of the piling in Bismarck.

Authorities on the west side of the river have placed a number of white posts around the curve on the west side of the railroad tracks just before the entry into Mandan, the posts being fairly close together and being placed as guide-posts for motorists. Street Commissioner French announced that the Bismarck street force would be used tomorrow to widen the road between the hills on this side of the bridge, where many accidents and more near accidents have occurred. It is planned to widen it several feet and to place white posts along the sides.

The police are continuing their anti-speeding campaign, several more arrests being made last night. About 35 persons have been notified of failure to have tail lights on automobiles burning, in the last two days, and unless authorities are notified the motorists have corrected the matter, arrests will follow, it is stated.

Denies Tourists Arrested. Chief Martineau denied emphatically that the police were arresting tourists for speeding. He declared the only persons arrested were constant residents of the city who have been arrested have been people who visit the city frequently, and he asserted that two parties of tourists reported as being speeding this week were permitted to go and the charges dismissed.

POMERENE PREDICTS A G. O. P. DEFEAT

Ohio Senator Vigorously Assails Administration of President Harding

(By the Associated Press) Columbus, O., Aug. 22.—Charging that the republican administration at Washington had repudiated its campaign pledges of 1920 and that great part of the legislation by the present congress had been for the benefit of the big business, rather than the ordinary citizen, Senator Pomerene delivering the keynote address at the democrat state convention here today, predicted a democrat victory in November. After March 4, next, there will still be one democrat senator in Washington from Ohio and more than half of the house delegation from Ohio will be democratic, he said. Bitter criticism of the republican tariff bill which he termed "the greatest piece of 'pork barrel' legislation in the history of congress," formed the major part of the address which also touched upon what Senator Pomerene declared the complete failure of the administration to enact constructive legislation. Republican revenue legislation placed the burden of tax on persons and businesses of smaller income and relieved wealthy persons and corporations earning excessive profits, he declared.

Cigarette Causes $2,000 Prairie Fire

A cigarette butt dropped by Edward Creviston, an employee of J. E. Shesak who lives 15 miles southwest of the city was given a valuation of $2,000 by State Fire Marshal R. M. Middaugh. A fire which was started by this lighted cigarette butt burned 100 tons of hay in stack, 200 acres of grass land, and some hay in windrows before it was checked by the heroic fighting of Mr. Creviston and neighbors. Had the fire been started about two weeks later when the grass was drier, the damage would have been far greater, stated Mr. Middaugh.

SCHOOL AID

North Dakota's common schools will receive $201,567.30 in the near future as a result of the certifying to the State superintendent of public instruction by the state auditor of the amounts accruing in the quarter ending July 31 to the interest and income funds of the schools and through fines, forfeitures and penalties. The moneys will be distributed by the State superintendent's office on the basis of students in school.

"BUNK," SAYS HE—BUT THE BYFIELDS FILE SUITS FOR $125,000 AGAINST CANDLER

MRS. SARAH BYFIELD; and INSETS, WALTER CANDLER (LEFT) AND CLYDE K. BYFIELD (RIGHT).

By NEA Service

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 22.—"Bunk and frameup," says Walter T. Candler, son of Georgia's Coca Cola king and vice president of a local bank, in answer to suits for $125,000 filed against him by Clyde K. Byfield, an auto dealer, and Sarah Byfield, his wife. But the Byfields insist the money should be paid them, and have filed suits for the amount, alleging Candler attempted to attack Mrs. Byfield in her stateroom on the liner Berengaria, en route to France.

WHEAT WEIGHS ABOVE GRADE

An extra-fine grade of wheat was threshed on the farm of one of the Hewitt Brothers, 15 miles south of Elgin, Grant county, J. B. Saylor reported today. The wheat tested 62 pounds, or two pounds above No. 1 requirements, and yielded better than 25 bushels to the acre. On the farm of Mr. Albright, 2 1/2 miles northeast of Braidwood, rye threshed 30 bushels to the acre and wheat 25 bushels, according to reports here.

STOCK JUDGING CONTESTS HELD GOOD FOR YOUNG

Develop Deep Impressions on Minds of Young People, J. H. Sheppard Says

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 22.—Stock judging contests are a good thing because they leave deep impressions on the minds of the young people taking part, according to J. H. Sheppard of the Agricultural College who has had charge of the college contests of the International Livestock Exposition for the last 16 years. Often the young men taking part become so interested in fine cattle or stock generally, that they decide then and there to have thoroughbred stock of their own. Mr. Sheppard says, "In an Agricultural college bulletin which is ready for distribution. A summary, made after tracing the history of men who had taken part in the international contests showed according to the bulletin that of the 439 men whose records were available, 44 percent were teachers and investigators in the Agricultural Colleges of the United States and Canada; 41 percent were farmers and breeders; about 7 percent were agricultural editors, secretaries of breeders associations and livestock commission men; while 8 percent were engaged in other work. The judging contests are of comparatively late origin, having been initiated during the last twenty years. The big school of livestock judging was made up of the horse trader, stock buyer, shipper and farmer breeder, according to the bulletin. Since then it is a conservative estimate to say that 150,000 young persons have received systematic courses in livestock up to the end of the 1921 school year the writer says. He adds by comparing scientific interest in agriculture now with that of thirty years ago that when he graduated in 1891 from the Iowa Agricultural College he had the "doubtful distinction of being the only agricultural student in college."

Mrs. Fenelon and Miss Hurley will open headquarters for preliminary convention work in a local hotel September 10. Miss Hurley has been endorsed for reelection to her position as department secretary of North Dakota at a meeting of the Fargo

OFFERS WIFE BOUNTY FOR HER HUSBAND

Widow of "Jack" Spreckles Wants Married Man for Herself and Will Pay

OFFERS $100 A MONTH

In Love With Rodney Kendrick, Newspaper Artist, and Would Buy Him

(By the Associated Press) San Francisco, Aug. 22.—What seemed yesterday to be a solution of the eternal triangle for Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Kendrick and Mrs. Edith Huntington Spreckles Wakefield of San Francisco and San Salito today did not seem quite so likely to work out.

Mrs. Wakefield who was the first wife of the late "Jack" Spreckles, son of John D. Spreckles, Sr., Pacific coast capitalist, according to her published admission, made an offer of "$100 a month for the rest of her life" to Mrs. Kendrick, if she would deliver Kendrick, a newspaper artist, so that Mrs. Wakefield could marry him. That is, as soon as Mrs. Wakefield herself secured a divorce. The offer yesterday, it was understood, would probably be accepted, but early today the artist's wife intimated she might take some legal action other than divorce, and that she would consult an attorney before doing anything.

Mrs. Kendrick III. According to the version of the case which all of the persons involved give, Mr. and Mrs. Kendrick are separated. Mrs. Kendrick is ill and has spent much of her time in sanatoriums. Mrs. Wakefield and Kendrick fell in love with each other and finally agreed they would marry if they could get their freedom and live with them if she wished or be "taken care of."

Mrs. Kendrick, the versions agree in saying, was brought from a sanatorium to Mrs. Wakefield's home in San Salito, where she remained for several weeks as a guest, receiving care and medical attention.

It was while in Mrs. Wakefield's home, the three persons aver, that Mrs. Kendrick revealed she no longer loved her husband and the revelation that Mrs. Wakefield did, together with her offer, followed it. It also was admitted that Mrs. Kendrick gave her wedding ring to Mrs. Wakefield saying that under the conditions she did not want it, and that she was "sick, weary and disillusioned."

Huband Agrees

The husband admitting acquiescence in the plan.

Mrs. Wakefield is 39, Kendrick is 32 and his wife is 24.

Mrs. Wakefield has three children the oldest of which is 19. Spreckles was their father. Mrs. Wakefield was bequeathed $50,000 in "Jack" Spreckles's will.

The San Francisco Chronicle this morning published a story it was said on what the paper declared to be reliable authority that the older Spreckles is coming to San Francisco to "take a hand in the case."

Iowa Farmers Are Settling Obligations; Bumper Corn Crop

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 22.—Farmers of Iowa are rapidly liquidating their debts and with the prospects being bright for bumper crop of corn this year, they face an era of prosperity. The farmers of Iowa, according to the Iowa department of agriculture, are settling their obligations at the rate of $100,000 a day since August 1, and in July, a total of a million dollars was paid back, he said. "With a bumper crop of corn expected it would urge every banker in the state to get behind the farmers and assist them in marketing their crops. Farmers should receive from forty to fifty cents a bushel for their corn."

Mr. McPherrin's address was by broadcast with the idea that it would be heard by the groups of banks gathered at picnic in the five separate counties. He was followed by Governor N. E. Kendall, who also was on the program for a radio talk.

TRANSIENT HELD AT DICKINSON

Dickinson, N. D., Aug. 22.—Benjamin White, transient, for the past three weeks employed as a harvest hand on the William David farm northeast of the city, is lodged in the county jail awaiting the return of Judge Thomas H. Pugh of the district court who will hear his plea on a charge of grand larceny.

White was apprehended at Medina by Sheriff Will of Billings county, upon advice that he was wanted here on a charge of grand larceny in connection with stealing a saddle from Mr. David. At a hearing before Justice A. P. Folsom Tuesday after being brought back from Medina by Sheriff George J. Brown, White admitted taking a horse and saddle from the David farm.

After he had admitted his guilt, bail for the accused was fixed at $1,000 by Judge Folsom, unable to furnish it, however, he was returned to jail.

AMERICAN BOY STOWAWAY HAS THRILLING TIME

(By the Associated Press) Paris, Aug. 22.—When 14 year old Herman Jasper ran away from his home in Binghamton, New York, bound for a personal conducted sight seeing tour of Europe, he did not visualize his journey as ending in a garbaged car on the Boulevard Des Italiens in Paris.

But that is where a policeman found him wrapped in peaceful slumber at four o'clock this morning—and now Herman is awaiting completion of arrangements to return him to Binghamton.

The adventurous youth crossed the Atlantic as a stowaway on the liner Finland. He was discovered during the voyage and was detained at Antwerp for deportation but escaped, going to Brussels and thence over the French frontier. At Hirsion he was again captured this time by General Darnes but once more showed his elusiveness finally reaching Paris where he was waiting for a chance to visit the battlefields.

Herman's parents are said to have offered $500 reward for his safe return.

CLAIM WRECK WAS DUE TO POOR ENGINE

Cook County Attorney Can Find No Evidence of Sabotage Plots

(By the Associated Press)

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Declaring the "real cause" of the Michigan Central wreck at Gary, Indiana, early Sunday "was clearly an unfit locomotive," characterizing the railroad charges that the wreck was due to plotter as a "hastily patched up explanation to place the blame for it upon the striking shopmen instead of on the railroad, where it belongs," J. F. McGrath, vice president of the Railway Employees department of the American Federation of Labor today said the wreck did not differ "a particle from wrecks reported each day from various parts of the country."

McGrath's statement followed the verdict of the coroner's jury which found that the engineer and fireman of the wrecked express came to their death "as a result of a plot to wreck the train."

It also followed an announcement by States Attorney Crowe's office admitting the failure to discover sabotage plots in correspondence seized in raids on the offices of William Z. Foster, radical leader and head of the trades union educational league.

Federal investigators asserted Foster had been under close surveillance for a long time and declared they would have known if train wrecking was to have played a part in the "one big union" program of Foster and his followers. Foster's activities so far as Federal and state investigators could learn, have been confined to his efforts to convert trades union lists to his "one big union" idea.

Escaped Convicts Evading Posse

Sioux Falls, S. D., Aug. 22.—Eluding the posess who yesterday morning were thought to be only a few minutes behind them, the four convicts who escaped last Thursday from the South Dakota penitentiary here were still at large this morning. No trace of the men had been found since they were seen passing through Brookings, Minn., at 3 o'clock Monday morning.

COAL BODY TO ACT ONLY FOR PUBLIC GOOD

President Harding to Insist That Body Be Made Up of Impartial Representatives

BILL IS REPORTED

Senator Borah's Measure to Create Coal Commission O. K'd by Committee

(By the Associated Press) Chicago, Ill., Aug. 22.—An agreement to settle the Illinois coal strike was reached this afternoon by the subcommittee of Illinois operators and miners scale committees, the Associated Press learned this afternoon.

Washington, Aug. 22.—While the senate labor committee was taking the first formal action toward creation of the coal fact finding commission recommended by President Harding the president let it be known today that he was disposed to insist that the investigating body be made up exclusively of impartial representatives of the public without special reporting for either mine operators or employees.

A bill for a commission on which the president would be free to choose representatives of the operators, miners or the public as he saw fit was favorably reported by the senate committee. At the same time the house interstate commerce commission, working independently refused to strike from its tentative bill a provision which would expressly prohibit membership in the commission by any person having any interest or connection with the coal industry. The house committee's bill also was favorably reported after a number of changes were made from the form in which originally it was drafted by Chairman Winslow, as perfected it provides for a commission of nine members while the measure drawn by the senate committee specifies that the membership shall be five. In each bill the commission is provided sweeping powers of investigation.

The settlement plan is simply a renewal of the 1922 wage contract which is in accordance with the recent Cleveland agreement for settlement of the nation wide coal strike which began April 1 last.

Although the settlement plan had not been signed, the leaders in the sub-committee conference were agreed that the ratification of the agreement would not be long delayed.

"I am going home tonight," said K. K. Kavanaugh, president of the firm and ninth district operators association. In emphasizing the fact that an agreement had been reached, he said the soft coal industry had agreed today to Illinois and Iowa and Indiana, operators and miners were reported on the verge of a settlement. The recent Cleveland settlement plan negotiated between the International union of united mine workers and operators from seven states was the basis for agreements in Illinois today and Iowa yesterday.

Chicago Will Have Fuel Administrator

(By the Associated Press) Terre Haute, Ind., Aug. 22.—Work of the joint sub-scale committee of the Indiana bituminous coal operators association and the union miners centering around the establishment of the wage contract that expired at the beginning of the strike almost five months ago was virtually completed today resulting in a meeting this afternoon of all members of the scale committee with the view of considering the final details of a settlement.

Chicago Will Have Fuel Administrator

(By the Associated Press) Chicago, Aug. 22.—Appointment of the Cook county and down state fuel distribution advisory committees by Governor Small was announced today. Both committees were requested to meet with Robert Medill, state fuel administrator, in Chicago, Thursday morning.

Announcement of the personnel of the committees has not yet been made. It is known however, that the governor approved the list yesterday, and that today's notifications of the Thursday meeting were going forward to the committee members.

How far the committee may be able to go in a price fixing direction is not yet known, but Fuel Distribution Medill stated that no price fixing powers were attached to the committees and that the fuel shortage situation would have to be controlled through methods of distribution. Mr. Medill is known to regard the fuel shortage in Illinois as serious, and only yesterday announced that there was insufficient coal supplies for the first two classes of essential requirements, including households.

COAL COMPANY BOOSTS OUTPUT

The Washburn Lignite Coal company, which opened its mine Saturday following the signing of a wage agreement, will increase its capacity, according to G. W. Stewart of Wilton, in Bismarck today. Production rose to 1,600 tons yesterday, he said. The immediate production was made possible, it was stated, to the foresight of W. P. Macomber, president and general manager, in having everything in readiness in anticipation of the Cleveland street settlement.

YEGGMEN UNABLE TO REACH CASH IN DWIGHT BANK

Dwight, N. D., Aug. 22.—Unable to force the money safe after blowing a hole through the side of the vault of the First State bank early yesterday, robbers escaped without loot although there was $2,000 cash in the safe. A hole large enough to admit a man's body was blown in the vault.

SALOON MAN KILLS TWO WHO TRIED HOLDUP

Bandits Beat Him but He Recovers in Time to Shoot Assailants

THIRD MAN ESCAPES

St. Paul Holdup Ends Fatally for Perpetrators.—Every Bullet Takes Effect

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 22.—Bush Lee, a highway man, died early today, from wounds inflicted by a soft drink saloon keeper who also shot to death another bandit when the two, with a companion, robbed the saloon late last night.

The three had clubbed Nick Ballis the proprietor, rifled the cash register and were fleeing from the place when Ballis, regaining consciousness fired at the men, five shots taking effect. The third bandit escaped in an automobile.

Though still somewhat dazed, every shot Ballis fired took effect. The highwayman was identified today by Frank Commer as Walter Hanson, alias avia of Sioux City, Iowa. Chief Sommers said Hanson came to St. Paul yesterday morning.

Lee and the third bandit whose identity has not been learned, left Hanson where he fell on the barroom floor, raced across the street to their automobile, the blood from Lee's wounds leaving a crimson trail.

Shortly after, detectives took Lee into custody when they saw a private automobile ambulance in front of West Tenth street hotel. To the last the wounded man, though realizing he was dying, maintained a stubborn silence. He refused to admit he was connected with the hold-up or another question regarding the third member of the bandit gang.

The bodies of Lee and Hanson were taken to the county morgue, where post mortem examinations were made by Coroner Ingerson. Lee's story to the police concerning his injuries was that he was shot by a jealous suitor who became enraged over the former's attentions to the suitor's sweetheart.

Mystery Surrounds Men Rescued When Airplane Is Wrecked

(By the Associated Press) New York, Aug. 22.—Search to locate the airplane Ambassador II, missing since Sunday was called off early today when a fishing smack arrived at Long Beach, 40 miles from here, bringing W. T. Miller, pilot, Harold Thompson, Mechanician and the one passenger of the seaplane. Drawn and haggard from exposure with nothing to eat and only a little water, the three men refused to tell of their adventures until they had recovered from the exhaustion caused by their experience. The identity of the passenger was not learned it being a family anxiety. Considerable mystery was thrown about the experiences of the three men.

Major B. L. Smith, a former army man and operating head of the company which owned the Ambassador, met Miller, Thompson and the mysterious passenger before going to his office this morning.

It was then announced that Major Smith would give out a statement later in the day, but that none of the men who were in the seaplane would tell their experiences to reporters.

LOCATE SEAPLANE

Detroit, Aug. 22.—Occupants of the seaplane for which an extended search was made off New York yesterday and last night were not hopelessly adrift for 43 hours, as previously reported, but during that time were after they had been taken aboard the vessel, Charles F. Redden of Cleveland, president of the Aero Marine company, owner of the seaplane told of the Associated Press here today.

Sewer Warrants Are Authorized

The city commission, in meeting last night, approved issuance of $36,000 of sewer warrants to pay for the new main sewer to be constructed in Front street and extending beyond it. The commission in its meeting also authorized the city attorney to present in St. Paul, Aug. 24, when the motion for an interlocutory injunction against the railroad commission asked by the Bismarck Water company is heard.

SITUATION IN RAIL STRIKE IS UNCHANGED

Sporadic Walkouts, Riots and Beatings Continue in Many Quarters

SEVERAL FATAL FIGHTS

Men Killed Daily in Various Rail-Centers Where Feeling Is Bitter

(By the Associated Press)

SITUATION IN BRIEF
Railway executives gathering in New York for conference to answer train service brotherhoods mediation proposals for settlement of the shopmen strike.

Southern railroad officials running passenger trains result of walkout of engineers and firemen at Spencer, N. C., on Washington-Atlantic line in protest against presence of armed guards.

Firemen at Princeton, Ind., on strike on Southern Railway, non leaders claiming train service between Louisville and St. Louis suspended.

Violence continues, including bombing of railroad men's hotel at Smithfield, Pa., and kidnapping of eight negro railworkers at Salisbury, N. C.

(By the Associated Press) Chicago, Aug. 22.—Walkouts by trainmen on the Southern Railway resulting in tie-ups in North Carolina, bombings, beatings and wreck plots marked the nation's strike situation today as the hour drew closer for new peace negotiations in New York tomorrow.

At Huntington, W. Va., a second attempt to dynamite a Chesapeake and Ohio railroad bridge was frustrated when a track walker frightened three men from the trestle. They left a box of dynamite and 40 feet of fuse behind.

San Bernardino, Calif., remained in a high state of excitement over renewed outbreaks in the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe yards. A striking electrician was killed and another perhaps fatally wounded in a running fight with a negro waiter employed at the commissary inside the Santa Fe enclosure. According to the police the negro said he emptied a pistol at five men who followed him from the shop gates.

The situation on the Southern railway remained critical today as trainmen, switchmen and clerks called meetings to decide whether their walkout at Spencer should remain permanent during the rail crisis.

Numerous prosecutions of persons arrested for violating injunctions restraining interference with railroad operations were begun in various parts of the country.

DENIES PEACE HOPE BUNK

(By the Associated Press) New York, Aug. 22.—Assertions of L. F. Loree, chairman of the eastern president's conference, that talk of peace in the rail strike was "all bunk" were attacked by the eastern strike committee of shopmen today in telegram to Bert M. Jewell, president of their union, at Washington.

"The Loree group of eastern railroad executives, insignificant in numbers but backed by the biggest powers of the Morgan-Gray open shop interests, is seeking a desperate eleventh hour attempt to scuttle the strike settlement," said a telegram dispatched by John J. Dowd, chairman of the Metropolitan district strike committee.

TROOPS REMOVED

(By the Associated Press) Salisbury, N. C., Aug. 22.—The eight companies of North Carolina national guard were ordered to Spencer near here because of strike disorders. Southern railway shops, were ordered removed, today after members of the train service brotherhoods had voted to remain idle as long as the troops were retained, a telephone message from Spencer received here shortly before noon said.

The brotherhood members whose walkout forced company officials to manage trains and caused an almost complete tie up of freight service through Spencer were joined during the forenoon by 250 clerks in the Southern's offices at Spencer, and here. The clerks declared their intention of staying out until the troops were removed.

OFFICIALS SUBSTITUTE
Greensboro, N. C., Aug. 22.—With road officials substituting for striking engineers and firemen, who refused to work in and around Spencer while state troops are on guard duty, the Southern railway today began clearing the virtual tie-up of its passenger transportation service between Washington and Atlanta. Freight trains, however, are not being moved.

NO FURTHER ACTION
(By the Associated Press) Washington, Aug. 22.—President Harding, although hopeful of success for the New York rail strike settlement was said at the white house today to be unready to take any other steps than those stated in his recent address to congress.

The declaration to congress that the laws would be enforced and the rights of workers to enter railroad service guaranteed it was added, it will remain as the final government statement until there is a change in the situation.

By W. H. Porterfield
Traveling southwest across Nevada recently, I took a poll of my fellow passengers and discovered with a shock that more than half of them were headed for a city which was practically unknown a decade ago.

These pilgrims were from Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Kansas and other states of the Great Plains, where folks work hard, save their money and for the most part take their religion and politics pretty straight. They were all joyfully anticipating bathing suits and bungalows in Long Beach.

What has made Long Beach, 20 miles southwest of Los Angeles on the coast of the Pacific, the fastest growing city in America and one of the most remarkable communities in any country?

Lacking a bathing beach as good as any one of half a dozen others I could name within a few hours' drive, its climate possesses not the smallest measure of advantage over any point on the coast from Santa Barbara to San Diego. Of scenery it has none save that furnished by the bluest of blue oceans, the long majestic sweep of the surf breaking on a low flat, sandy beach. North and south a few miles distant, are picturesque rocks, caves and promontories where the spray supplies a million rainbows when mixed with California sunshine, but at Long Beach are none of these things.

No, candor compels even the most enthusiastic to admit that nature has done less for Long Beach than for almost any other spot along this coast.

Why So Fast?
Yet for five long years past, Long Beach has been the Mecca of a constantly increasing pilgrimage from all the middle west, and whereas a decade ago it was a straggling beach town of 17,000 people, today it is a modern city of nearly six times that number, galloping along at the rate of a million dollars the month in building permits and threatening to overtake its big neighbor, Los Angeles, in the next decade or two.

What is the answer? During the past five years I have asked a hundred persons all of whom had theories.

They were all, in my opinion, partly right, but chiefly wrong. The one big, outstanding cause for the remarkable growth of this remarkable city can be given in a word: Prohibition.

Venice, San Pedro, Redondo, Santa Monica—all with their admitted great attractions, subsidies and inducements, have been left gaping at the post, while Long Beach has centered home a winner to the music of bands and the flying of pennants and prohibition has done the trick.

Twenty-five years ago, when but a straggling village of a few hundred, every other point on the coast had its roadhouse and "joint" where a pleasant time might be had by all, if one cared to pay the price and accept the ministrations of old R. E. Morse and his accompanying head-ache.

Strong on Respectability
Not so Long Beach—not so. While Los Angeles was drawing upon the world in general and the middle west in particular for recruits to "supplement the local birth rate," Long Beach was telling a waiting world that buttermilk and grape juice carried no sting, and that there was one bright spot in southern California where one could take a dip in the surf or dance the two-step by moonlight and drink of the cup which adds no sorrow with it.

Respectability—that was old Long Beach's middle name. Churches, chautauquas, Y. M. C. A. conventions, singing schools and "The Old Homestead" and "East Lynne" in the Opera House—that was the dope. "Why this is just like home, only a thousand times better," sighed Mother as she sat on her bungalow porch and crocheted an antimacassar (whatever that may be) to the music of the perfectly respectable sea waves, while Father lighted the evening pipe, and went over to find a neighbor to talk to. Both had found what their souls were longing for—a perfectly respectable vacation place.

That night Pa and Ma wrote home to Banker Whitcomb in Red Oak and invited him and Mrs. Whitcomb to come out and see them "and make a home visit." The town banker was maybe gettin' a "little mite" old and his food didn't taste so good as it once did and he had plenty of money to live on "and let's go, Ma," was accepted with alacrity.

So the letters went by every mail, and soon the trains were loaded with visitors who in turn became residents to engage in writing back to the folks they knew. It was like a lodge where you want everybody to join.

You talk about the hand that rocks the cradle ruling the world. I'll say she doesn't stop with the cradle. She generally rules the old boy, also. And Ma soon discovered that there wasn't none of them dance hall cabarets in Long Beach and so she could sleep nights mighty sure that nothin' was a-goin' to lead Pa astray.

Oll! Oll!
Laugh if you want to, but there you have the answer. Let Venice hit it up till the wee' wee' hours and San Pedro sailors make Rome howl, Long Beach was headquarters of that respectability which is the hand-maiden of righteousness and, just as honesty is the best policy, so it pays to be good. And so Long Beach grew and grew and grew until today she is so big and powerful that she doesn't care if all the rest of the world goes dry as a sun-dried bone. She has won with a mighty handi-cap.

But prohibition didn't do it all. They tell you that oil and water won't mix. Never believe it. Whenever I get to cogitating over the case of Long Beach, I think of that old classic, "Them as has gets."

Just as she had everything coming her way, along comes an engineer chap and discovers oil on the city lands—oceans of it, regular Texas gushers, and the other day their $7500-a-year city manager gave out an official statement which says that the net revenue from leases on city lands this coming year will be

JUST LIKE HOME. ONLY BETTER. SIGNED MOTHER. AS ENGINEER CHAP DISCOVERS OIL. LONG BEACH IS FOUNDED ON FERTILE MILK, GRAPE JUICE AND RESPECTABILITY. THE OFFICIAL HEADQUARTERS FOR WORLD LEAGUE HORSESHOE PITCHERS.

$800,000, and that's all it costs to run the city!

Whoop! No more taxes. Whoop! Gosh, how those dear old Iowans do hate taxes, but, steady, Fanny, old girl, steady now—not so fast.

"Let's not cut the taxes," says the manager, "let's spend the money to beautify our city," and Secretary Ballard of the Chamber of Commerce tells me that's what they probably will do.

"Not so good," said the Iowans, but they grinned a bit, for most of 'em are rich and can afford to wait for dividends. Then they went back to their horseshoe pitching in the city park, for I forgot to tell you that Long Beach is the official headquarters of the ancient and amalgamated world league for horseshoe pitchers. The same old boys who used to pitch horseshoes behind the city livery stable at Foxville, have transferred their activities to Long Beach.

Daddies Win
Well, the coming generation didn't like this any too much. One day several Marys and Johns sided up to several fathers and tried to get 'em to quit.

"Pa," they said, "horseshoe pitching is such a plebeian sport. Now, if you would not take up tennis or golf or polo or something fashionable. You'd look so sweet, Pa, in golf stockings and sweater."

Gosh!mighty, Pa just tightened the garters on his shirt-sleeves, hitched his galluses and took hold of another just-right horseshoe. Then the city council went at it and passed an ordinance and then the horseshoe league got mad and notified the banks that they'd withdraw their deposits if they couldn't pitch horseshoes in the park, and the ordinance was killed in committee.

Pitching horseshoes may lack the excitement of stud-poker and the patrician finish of golf or tennis, but it happens to be the real, characteristic original middle west sport, born out of the need for relaxation at a time when there was no money to blow in on monkey-doodle pastimes. And as such, the transplanted Long Beacher, whose worst vice is sneezing sand onto Ma's clean kitchen floor, just naturally loves it. Prohibition, oil and horseshoes—there you have the formula which has made Long Beach the most remarkable city of its time.

DAIRY COW IS WORLD QUEEN

Fargo, N. D., Aug. 21.—The dairy cow is queen of the world and a true friend of mankind according to a letter which Max Morgan dairy specialist at the agricultural college today sent out to bankers of the state.

"Every morning the world wakes up hungry," Mr. Morgan salutes his banker friends. "It has been doing this since the first woman first spoke to man. The morning of every day sees the world rub its eyes, stretch itself, push up the curtains and ask for milk."

"We have to learn to like the taste of oysters or olives and some other things better or worse but we don't have to learn to like the taste of milk." "A report from John Ross states that his ryer went 40 bushels. Adam Brown says his wheat went 39 bushels. Yes, probably it did but who is reporting the fields that went ten or fifteen bushels? In other words because of this one year's grain harvest has the dairy cow been shelved?" "We have mistakenly called cotton king. It is not. Milk is king for it contains all the fifteen essential elements of nutrition and food is more important than clothes."

"What was it that brought us through the financial depression; that kept the wolf from the homes of the poor and made it possible to keep the American dollar worth 100 cents and to keep this state in an ever prosperous condition? The dairy cow!"

"Have you noticed the high prices paid this summer for butterfat? What does it mean? I am not a market reporter but it looks like good prices for fall and winter."

"Sometimes we are so close to a thing that we do not see it and again we hear a thing so often that we do not hear it at all. This is one of the reasons perhaps why men through the ages did not hear the cry for milk or if they heard it their minds were not on their stomachs, so they pulled up their belts another hole, stumbled over the great necessity to human development—milk—and went back to carrying philosophy on the tablets of time.

"Sufficient feed is at hand. Finances are straightening out. Dairy cow prices are reasonable now and butterfat is high. We gained four per cent in dairy cows in 1921, or 1880. Let's make it 100,000 by 1925."

DICKINSON MEN ARE EXAMINED

Dickinson, N. D., Physical examination of Dickinson young men who have signed the roster of Company K begins Thursday night and will be completed before the end of the week according to Capt. L. R. Baird who has the organization work of the company in charge.

While more than 50 men, the number required as minimum strength, have signed the company-roster many of them are out of town at the present time. For that reason several more members must be secured before the company can be sworn in and passed for muster.

Although there are many details yet to be arranged Captain Baird and H. L. Requette, who has been assisting him, hope to have the company in shape to be mustered in before September 15.

MINER INJURED IN EXPLOSION

Dickinson, N. D., Aug. 22.—George Sivak, 24, of Snow, a miner employed in the Hebron mine and Pressed Brick company mine at Hebron, was off a charge of dynamite in one room at a mine in an adjoining room. Hearing an explosion shortly after he had reached a safe distance and thinking it was the blast in his room he returned to the cavity intending to dig out the coal.

As he bent over with his pick the charge exploded. Flying coal which struck him broke the bones in his face and forehead and cut many lacerated wounds in the flesh. His jaw and right arm were also fractured.

First aid was given to the injured man by Hebron physicians. He was then rushed to St. Joseph's hospital in Dickinson where he is now recovering.

Work, But Don't Rush

BY DR. R. H. BISHOP.

Of all your rushing to dress, to eat, to work and to appointments and rushing home from work again, how much do you estimate is absolutely necessary? Very little, probably.

The hurry habit is often the forerunner and chief cause of nervous breakdowns and ill-health. You will find it an almost invariable rule that the man who is always in a hurry bolts his meals, tires his body and strains his nervous system.

In general, the hurry habit causes much fatigue, an underlying cause of a great deal of sickness. An exhausted body offers little resistance to the attacks of disease germs.

Hard work never hurt anyone, but hurry and hard work cannot be combined. The hardest workers should be the most apprehensive of their health.

In preventing bodily fatigue, a great deal depends upon the rate of speed at which the muscles are required to work. Work at a steady but not too fast, the muscles have the chance to throw off the refuse products, at the same time bringing in new fuel or energy for further work.

Rest is the great repairer of muscles. It gives the muscles the time which they must have to get rid of their poisons and replace their small store of energy.

SHOCK OF WAR HELD CAUSE OF PLIGHT OF MAN

Story of Life of Youth Charged with Murder Related in Papers in Court

HAD PLEADED GUILTY

Scenes of battle in the Argonne, the training of the soldier, and a story of a man's jealousy are all presented in the transcript of a case just filed with the supreme court. The papers are the story of Joseph Thorndson, a man who pleaded guilty and was sentenced to life against him by the state and that he give a new trial. The case comes from Grand Forks county, where Thorndson was a farm laborer before the war and for a brief period after his discharge.

The charge against Thorndson was that on the 28th day of December, 1919 he shot and killed Elmer Deitzel, his employer. Thorndson admitted the shooting to the state's attorney, and pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge Cole, telling the judge that he did not wish counsel, that he would plead guilty without a trial.

The remarkable story of the man first became partially public when his case was called before the pardon board. It is practically from that hearing that the present appeal to the supreme court is understood to have started.

Before the war Thorndson was a farm laborer, for six years, upon the farm of Delzell. Because of his limited mental attainments he was happy and contented in this field. Returning to the same place after the war, he found himself the subject of suspicion by the husband, who stated once that he would kill both Thorndson and his wife if certain suspicions were verified. His nervous state intensified these warnings and when, after a particularly violent family quarrel, he saw his employer struggling with his wife, he killed him, in protection, so he thought, of the woman and himself. His mental state at the time of the shooting is given as one of the three reasons for the vacation of the plea and the right at least to a new trial.

Thorndson was born in Wisconsin, and a common school education and had an unsuccessful life until he was drafted and sent to Camp Dodge. He sailed for France May 1, 1918, and was on the firing line in July, where he served in the Unsundering sector for sixty days and night without relief.

After the Unsundering sector, he went to the Argonne. The following statement of the continuation which developed a basis for a later murder are given in a report of his case by Dr. John E. Engstad, who examined him after he had been in the penitentiary for some time:

Was Transferred
"After this he was transferred to the troops, taking part in the heroic battle of the Argonne where he was under constant fire day and night with little water and no food for six days and nights. At about the fifth day he sustained a profound shock which at that time caused a breakdown in his whole system. After a charge, where they had driven the enemy back a considerable distance they were ordered to dig trenches and while at work a shell exploded a short distance from him with a fearful report. A splinter of the shell hit the top of the head, or the skull of his comrade, only a yard distant.

"From this moment, as he states, he has not been himself. The shock seemed to his nervous system blotted out his memory for some time, and to such an extent that he does not remember distinctly the valiant American soldiers were relieved after their super-human efforts.

"While in training he listened to lecture after lecture by officers telling him to kill his enemy. It was always kill, kill, and this training, thus sensitizing of the brain cells along certain lines—reached after his terrible experience in the Argonne Forest, for he had almost continuously one impulse that was always with him, and that was to kill—kill—anyone with whom he had the slightest misunderstanding. A large club as a weapon was pictured on his mental horizon, as the weapon wherewith he was to crush in the skull of his opponent, or maybe friend. The scene of the Argonne Forest continually urged him on as being drawn by a magnet. Only by employing his intelligence and his moral perceptions to the utmost, did he succeed in overcoming these violent impulses.

Mental Impulse
The physician then presents the mental impulse that Thorndson explained to him for the time before and during the actual moments of the murder and then continues: "Knowing that he had taken a life, although at the same time the evil spirit, the spirit of the Argonne whispered to him, kill, kill, he lost all his inhibiting mental control. Confusion ruled supreme in his mind. The only way whereby he could to amend for his mistake as it turned out to be, was suicide, for instead of safeguarding the women's life and honor, he had, it seemed to him, failed on one and compromised the other."

The physician then goes on to discuss his case scientifically: "Said Thorndson is a typical exophthalmic. He has at one time in his life suffered from thyroidism, due to a large and active thyroid gland. His eyes are both protruding to a marked extent, (op-eyed) showing unmistakable evidence of previous systematic derangements due to a disease of the endocrine system. No observant surgeon would have admitted him in the service of the army. Mentally, he is subnormal, with the calculating and planning mind of fifteen year old boy. He has had no vision of life; no in-contive to save or to establish a home for himself. All that we consider life worth living for, he didn't give a thought. He did not imbrue his hands. He just spent his savings as a child would.

Typical Case

"He is a typical case of army neurosis, subjected to activating influences by superiors, obeying orders without a thought. He was peculiarly influenced by the inhumanity of all war, killing of fellow human beings, whereby a temporary settlement might be made, of problems a community could have settled peacefully and satisfactorily to all.

"Said Thorndson's brain cells were, to a certain extent, injured in the battle. Then superimposed on this danger was the training of the officers to kill, kill, the call of the primeval to slay his opponent. This produced a typical case of war neurosis, with a distinct loss of the inhibiting impulses that guide every normal man's actions.

"Mr. Thorndson has suffered a distinct loss of said inhibiting impulses to his nervous system, or in plain words, he is subject to impulsive insanity, as the margin between sanity in his case is very narrow; and, under stress and mental excitement due to the war neurosis, when the image of the skull of the fallen soldier appears before his visual consciousness, his inner animal self prompts him to take a club and kill."

In concluding, Dr. Engstad, was of the opinion that the man should be paroled from the penitentiary and immediately placed in a government psychopathic institute, with a possibility that he might be so restored that he could serve in the army as a mechanic. He does not believe it safe for him to be given freedom in the stress and strain of every day life.

THE STATES' OLDEST NEWS-

PAPER

(Established 1873)

WHEN YOU WERE A BOY

In this hot weather, your thoughts turn back to boyhood and somehow cool water is inseparably connected with it—the cold spring bubbling from kindly Mother Earth, and the refreshing old swimming hole.

Clarence Darrow once wrote that the boy never lived who could pass cooling swimming water, or a spring without passing for a drink.

Tired of the hot lake-water fluid that comes through dirty city water pipes, what would you not give for another version of that on your face in the grass and moss, drinking your fill from the spring of boyhood?

Oh, but it was delicious there in the shade, with the fragrance of clover on the breeze.

Biggs thrilled in the nearby forest. "From far off through the dusty hot air floated the ambitious whistle of the planing mill, the soft round of the flour mill, the whistle of a distant freight train or the crash of a motor car shunted down a sidewalk.

Your faithful dog, his long red tongue hanging, though gorged with water, watched you intently and wagged his tail violently when you passed him even with a glance.

The dog watched closely, for he knew that you would join the gang under the willows at the old swimming hole. He was the best swimmer of the bunch, that dog—and, maybe, the best scout.

You had great day dreams with the gang, undecided whether to be pirates or railroad engineers when you grew up. You would thrill with knowledge that they were your friends. Oh, yes, you never would forget those lads.

How many have kept track of? In particular, what became of the young dean who always led in tying your clothes in knots, making you

"chaw beef"?

It was a red-letter day when you were allowed to help unload a car of watermelons. The ripest and most alluring always slipped—accidentally, of course—and had to be eaten.

You recall that melon. Seeds as black as ink, the "meat" red and so ripe that it was like sugar crystals at the core? You compare it with the half-ripe melons sold now in cities, melons with whitestreaked hard centers, and you wonder if the watermelon of boy-hood has not been crossed with the squash, by "scientists."

As with the spring and the old swimming hole, the best part of that watermelon was the water itself.

No matter how much a person snacks his lips and sighs when the choicest of light drinks flows down his throat, there is, after all, no real drink in the world except good old fashioned water, cool and refreshing. It is one of the greatest joys of life.

MURDER

A Philadelphia mail order house advertises "genuine German Ot-toes automatics," described as "nice small size, easily carried."

Any crook who wants 'one of these revolvers can get it secretly by mail, delivered for $7. If the crook buys a gun in his home town, usually the sales tax has to be registered with the police.

Murders, burglaries and hold-ups would be cut down by a law prohibiting the retailing of revolvers by parcel post or express. Why not stop private sale altogether, sell only to police and army, thus disarming the underworld?

PAPER BULLET

Boston police think of adopting the "paper bullet" system originated by Police Commissioner Inches of Detroit.

The paper bullets are birdshot wrapped in paper wads. They hurt when they hit, but stop just under neath the skin. Very fine for riot police. But for handling crooks, the police had better stick to Mr. Gill's invention, and get plenty of target practice. A bean-shooter never stopped a professional gunman.

FUTURE MEAT SUPPLY

Nelson, chief biologist for Uncle

Sam, will cross the Alaskan caribou with the reindeer. The idea is to breed a larger animal, now that caribou and reindeer are looking as future meat supply. Better leave them alone.

A precedent exists in some of the "scientific" tinkering with certain fruits and vegetables, practically ruined as tasty food by "improvements."

They look better to the eye, but taste like wood, compared with the original natural state.

CANDY

Cost of running the national government now is nine cents a day for each of us, and for candy we spend two cents a day apiece.

William Moffet, of the National Salesmen's Association, says the nation's candy bill is $750,000,000 a year. Half of this big sum is spent by the kiddies, in pennies and nic-kettes.

We notice the government's cost because most of it is assessed in a lump, while candy and similar luxuries take their toll in small but steady nibbles.

FAILURE

In the Far East, Christianity has come to mean "war," says Fred B.

Smith, religious investigator, after an oriental tour. In India they told him, "Christianity, a cannon-ball, is to be feared."

Smith thinks the war set back, by many years, what might have been the progress of Christianity in China and India.

The big job for missionaries now is to explain this to the heathen:

Christianity, the religion of peace, is not a failure. The trouble is in the failure to live up to the teachings of Christianity.

SHORTER LETTERS

Americans are writing shorter letters, reports the postoffice department. It reasons to this conclusion because the average now is 45 letters to a pound, against 40 in 1907.

This doesn't necessarily prove that letters are briefer, for stationery is lighter than it was 15 years ago.

The average American probably writes as much as ever. Letters may be shorter, but more are written. It used to take a week's rallying of the will power to get started with, "I take my pen in hand."

LOST

House wreckers tearing down

an old homestead in Worcester,

Mass., find a sealed envelope behind a secret panel.

Envelope was received through the mails in 1845 by James Munro Schofield. He put it away by error and forgot to open it. Inside is a will, leaving Schofield a Scotch estate worth nearly $1,000,000 then. What is it worth now? Schofield's heirs will rush to Edinburgh to find out.

The case is an allegorical warning to people who continually impose

"I forgot." That is the most costly expression that ever rolls from the tongue of man.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues, the whole being discussed in the press of the day.

COLUMBIA'S BILL OF COSTS

From the diary of Columbus and from other papers found available for his purpose, a German statistician has estimated at $7,250 the original cost of the discovery of America. The figures impress us as furnishing an amazing example of explorer's thrift. It has to be considered, however, that the expedition of discovery escaped by several centuries the handicaps now imposed travel in this direction now imposed by the immigration quotas, the tariff and the high cost of housing. Not even passport fees had to be taken into account for the excursion of 1492.

Amiral Columbus himself drew a salary of $320, according to the information gathered by Herr Reuhaus. There was in those happy days neither shipping board nor other regulatory body to interfere with this munificence of reward. The crews of the fleet were content, it appears, on stipends of $29.25 per man.

In modern times distinguished foreigners have found possible to discover America at figures practically of their own fixing. It is a matter of record and of some local pride that a few men coming over in the steamer have found their venture profitable morally and financially than that of others who have paid out more than the cost of the Columbus outfit. We recall the names of voyagers hither who have fought to get back the expenses of their quest by the desperate means of writing books about the country and the people.

The German authority agrees that the Columbus enabling fund was secured largely through the pawn-

ing of innocent and the pawn-

ing of innocent and the pawn-

ing of innocent and the pawn-

BILLOWY LINES FOR YOUNGER GIRLS

It seems to be unanimously agreed that of all fashionable silhouettes, the one that favors billowing skirts and slightly flared bodies is most becoming to the young girl. All her frilly summer dresses were made in this style except, of course, her sport clothes; and the advance fall models coming out daily show it more and more. For dances, of course. For afternoon wear, almost equality of course.

AFTERNOON TEA—AN IDEAL WAY TO DISCHARGE SOCIAL DEBTS

BY BERTHA E. SHAPLEIGH.
Cooking Authority for NEA Service and Columbia University.

There is no easier or more delightful way of entertaining a few friends at a small expenditure of time and money than making them a tea.

"Tea" used to mean—and still does in some places—the evening meal consisting of bread, canned or preserved fruit, cake and tea—with possibly cold meat or a light salad.

Now that the evening meal means dinner to most city people, to ask a person to tea is to offer hospitality between the hours of four and six, giving as refreshment some beverage, usually tea, cake, or sandwiches or both.

A tea may be more formal and consist of hot tea, sandwiches, with cakes, candies. A light Tea is really an afternoon reception between the hours of four and seven, calling for engraved cards—and a substantial food.

What to Serve.
One may serve at such an affair—hot bouillon in cups, buttered rolls, croquettes, salad with mayonnaise, ice cream, cakes, and coffee. The bouillon may be omitted and a choice of salad or croquettes served and ice cream, cakes, candies and nuts with a chocolate or coffee.

However, the simple afternoon tea is far more acceptable, not spoiling one's appetite for dinner. The housewife can, with the assistance of daughter or friend, serve easily 20 or 30 people. It is well to make two kinds of sandwiches, one with a filling not sweet and one sweet—not forgetting a few plain bread and butter ones.

Allow three small, thin sandwiches for each guest. Cookies, small frosted cakes, shortbreads, nut cakes and kisses may be served for the sweet.

Tea Novelties.
When serving tea, pass both lemon and cream. Insert whole cloves in some slices of lemons—many persons like the combination. The Russians serve a preserved strawberry in each cup and the Hawaiian tea has three cubes of pineapple which have been cooked in a heavy sirup—served in each cup.

The pineapple gives a delicious flavor, and sweetens the tea. One of the best ways of serving tea to a large number of people is to make a very strong infusion, which may be served in a tea pot, kept hot, and diluted with freshly boiling water to suit individual tastes.

If the tea is put in a cheesecloth bag, no straining is necessary. Many firms are putting up tea in individual bags, and the cost is very little more—and the convenience correspondingly great.

When serving chocolate or cocoa, have a bowl of whipped cream, sweetened and flavored, and put a spoonful on top of each cup. Two very soft marshmallows to each cup make a good substitute for cream.

COLLARS.

Some collars have grown so wide that it is not surprising they are sometimes mistaken for coats.

DRAPERIES.

The fad for having floating panels and apron draperies attached to the girdle, continues in popularity and is noticed on many of the newest fall models.

ROUGES.

A fashionable beauty shop sells two distinct types of rouge—one effective in dry mountain air, and another for the seashore that defies salt water bathing.

FLIP OF COIN DECIDES THIRD DAY OF PAGEANT

Will Be Held in Bismarck, Monday, Sept. 18 and in Mandan Two Days

The flip of a coin last night on the new bridge at a dinner given at the first day of the celebration of the opening of the new Missouri river bridge would be centered in Bismarck, September 18, and that the pageant would be given in Mandan on September 19 and 20.

It had been agreed that the pageant would be held in this city one day and in Mandan one day and that one of the two cities would have the pageant the third day. J. H. Newton, president of the Mandan committee, and J. C. Anderson, chairman of the Bismarck committee, decided by the flip of the coin on the bridge last night, Mr. Anderson calling and the toss going to Mandan for the third day of the pageant.

A meeting of the pageant queen committee was held last night. The plan of the joint committee is that Bismarck will select a queen who Bismarck will select a queen who can will select a queen and one will be selected for the day set aside for the territory adjacent to these two cities.

Each town within a radius of a certain number of miles of the two cities is asked to put up a candidate and from these candidates the third queen will be selected.

Various organizations in Bismarck will nominate candidates.

HITS FAIL TO WIN VICTORY FOR BROWNS

Chicago, Aug. 22.—The St. Louis Browns continued to pound the ball hard but succeeded only in fattening their batting averages while their struggle to stay near the front runners in the American League race grows weaker. They out-hit the Athletics in the last of the four-game series but lost 7 to 6. The Macmen took three of the four games.

This loss of the Browns placed them a game and a half behind the leading Yanks who were idle. The Browns today will engage the Red Sox at Boston, while Speaker's Clevelanders open a series with the Yanks at the Polo grounds.

Detroit's club had another of its heavy hitting spells in Boston, gathering 19 blows off four Red Sox hurlers and winning, 16 to 2. The Pirates early defeated the Braves 6 to 1. Hamilton, Pittsburgh baseman, holding the Boston hitters at bay until the ninth, when three hits produced their single run. Williams of the Browns, ran his string of hitting in consecutive games to 25. The Tigers slammed four Boston pitchers for 19 hits. Every Tiger except Bassler had one or more hits. The Pirates eleven hits were divided among every player on the team. Turner of the Pirates made the only home run of the day.

Wichita Falls Winner in 25 Straight Ball Games

The Wichita Falls baseball team, Texas League, set a new record for the league and came within two games of tying the world's record for consecutive wins.

The team won 25 straight games, coming within two of the world's record, held by the Corsicana team, old Texas League, in 1902, and the Baltimore Orioles, International League, in 1921.

The major league record is 26 straight wins, held by John McGraw's Giants and set in 1916. This large number of victories brought the Wichita Falls club from the bottom of the league in standings for the second half to the top, leading by three full games. The winning series was cut short on Sunday, Aug. 13, when the Dallas Marines defeated the lucky team by a score of 4 to 1.

The list of victories began on July 21, when the Wichita Falls Spudders captured a 16-inning game from Dallas, 2 to 1. After that they took a series of games from each team in the league with the exception of Fort Worth, which feat they had accomplished, however, before the string started.

In the 25 victories the Spudders scored 194 runs, as against 89 for their opponents. All the games, with the exception of one, were on home grounds.

MAJOR JOHN L. GRIFFITH

Who He Is and Things He Has Done Already

John L. Griffith was born at Mt. Carroll, Ill.

He is a graduate of Mt. Carroll High School and of Beloit College. He coached at Yankton College, 1902-05, was director of athletics and athletic coach at Morningstar College, 1905-08, and served as director of athletics and coach at Drake University, 1908-17, besides being dean of men at Drake for four years and, for one year, vice president. He also founded and managed the Drake Relays.

He entered the military service in 1917. Thereafter, until his discharge, with the rank of major, in October, 1919, his history was as follows:

Athletic officer for the 88th army division, with supervision over the physical and athletic work of 30,000 men; ordered, in August, 1918, to Camp Gordon, to assist in establishing a physical and bayonet school; placed in command, in September, of the physical and bayonet school at Camp Pike; ordered, in January, 1919, to Washington, and placed in command of the physical and bayonet work of the army in the United States; became, in September, 1919, senior instructor of a special physical and bayonet school established at the Infantry school of arms by the general staff.

He was connected with the athletic department of the University of Illinois from October, 1919, until August, 1922.

He is editor and publisher of The Athletic Journal, chairman of the national collegiate track and field rules committee and a member of the N. C. A. A. track and field meet committee.

What Cares a Fight Fan for Change?

By NEA Service
Michigan City, Ind., Aug. 22.—Getting excited often costs people money, and, as Phil Campbell says: "Fight fans are about the most excitable people as is."

Phil is business manager and ticket expert for Promoter Floyd Fitzsimmons of Michigan City. Until Governor McCray forbade the holding of the Dempsey-Brennan mill in Indiana he had been selling up his ticket fingers to handle the past-board "jack" for that event on Labor Day. Even yet he may be assigned to go wherever the heavy-weight championship fight may be held because he's been in the ticket office at most big fights in the past 12 years and there are few men as efficient at the work as he.

"Selling tickets for a boxing show," he says, "isn't a short-change game, but you'd be surprised to see how much change is forgotten at the window where the selling's done."

Tea Pot Tempest

You've heard about "a tempest in a tea pot." Well, here it is! The smallest, most modest monkey in the world, weighs seven ounces, but he can out up as many monkey-whines as any monkey. Belongs to Mrs. J. W. Brown, of London.

Work Laid Out For Him to Do In Latest Job

BY JOHN L. GRIFFITH
(Commissioner of Athletics of the Western Conference)

(Written Expressly for R. J. Gibbons of the NEA Service)
School and college competitive athletics constitute a utility in our social and economic life.

It is on our American athletic fields that unwritten laws are largely developed.

Athletics are invaluable in creating morale, and in teaching lessons of loyalty and patriotism. In short, our athletics are too valuable to be dispensed with, and too important ever to be placed on the defensive.

Believes in Sport
I believe in our American games and sports and am glad to have the opportunity of working with the directors of the Western Conference in carrying out a constructive program designed to safeguard athletics.

The ten directors are practical men. They have no wild theories concerning athletics. They are not dreamers, and above all, each one is honestly striving to improve athletics, not in his own university, but in the other director's university, in the end, these directors have established certain rules under which athletics in the conference are to be conducted.

These rules are sensible and necessary for the development of athletics along the right lines. The majority of people, when they understand them, believe in these rules.

Highest Plane, Sought
One of the most important rules is the one regarding amateurism. Every one who understands the purpose of college athletics believes in the amateur principle to the extent of agreeing that it would not make for the best in college athletics if the colleges were to conduct their contests strictly on a professional basis.

Some would draw the line one place dom! Will Hays, ruler of the movie realm!

Now make room in your list for John L. Griffith, who's just been named supreme commissioner of Western Conference athletics.

He has jurisdiction over western college sports, from football on down. His subjects include 2000 varsity men on Big Ten squads, and they'll have to be mighty good, or papa'll spank.

Griffith received his appointment from the sport directors of the Big Ten. He'll have offices in Chicago, and his term will be two years.

and some another. The directors, after years of study, have suggested where the line shall be drawn. These men know what is good for our college athletics and the support of the public is solicited in the endeavors which are being made to place amateur athletics on a higher plane.

Always a Leader
In fact, this conference has always been a leader in initiating changes which were for the betterment of athletics.

In accepting the office of commissioner of athletics of the Western Conference, I realize that our games will be just as clean as the men who play them and that the standards of sportsmanship in the colleges will largely be established by the men who coach the teams. It will be my privilege and duty to labor to make our athletics increasingly helpful and beneficial to the nation.

Left-Hand Batter Weak Against Southpaw? Notion's Bunk

BY BILLY EVANS.
Is there considerable bunk to the generally accepted theory that a majority of the left-handed batters are weak against southpaw pitching?

I have always believed so, because the really great left-handed batter never experiences any great difficulty in hitting southpaws.

However, it is tradition in baseball that left-handed batters are weak against left-handed pitching. Most major league managers work on that theory.

Some managers even go to the extent of having left and right-handed shifts, which they use to meet the selections of the opposing manager.

In some cases this stunt works out nicely because most right-handed batters do like to hit against southpaws. I can name a dozen major league players who are right-handed batters and who are not in the .300 class, yet against left-handers they are dangerous batsmen.

The use of the shift in baseball is more or less modern. It was not practiced to any great extent 20 years ago.

This shift has been a bad feature for the left-handed hitter who is not in the Cobb-Sisler class. It tends to destroy confidence. Knowing that he will probably be taken out when a left hander in the pitching selection of the opposition, he loses his fight, and succumbs to the generally accepted belief that most left-handers cannot hit southpaws.

During a recent series that I umpired between the Washington and Detroit clubs some very unusual features of the theory that I have been expounding cropped out.

Manager Milan of the Washington club very often uses a shift in his lineup, according to whether the opposing pitcher is a right or left hander.

In one of the games, in order to gain any possible advantage, Manager Cobb of Detroit had Ehmeke, a right hander, work the first inning against the Washington club. Cole, a left hander, warmed up in secret under the grandstand.

Milan, when he saw that Ehmeke was to be the opposing pitcher, used all his left-handers in the lineup. At the start of the second inning Manager Cobb sent Cole, his left hander, to the mound.

If Milan elected to use his right-handers it meant that the left-handers he had injected into the lineup would have to be withdrawn, and be of no use during the rest of the game. Possibly Milan was peeved at Cobb's strategy. Anyway he made no change in his lineup. In one inning Washington made six runs off Cole and won the game by a 10-sided score.

The following day Cobb selected Othman, a left hander, to work. Manager Milan of Washington, because of the success his left-handers had against Cole, tempted fate and sent in the same lineup.

Oldham was knocked out of the box in the early innings. Dausa, a right hander, succeeded him and had the Washingtons at his mercy.

All of which made me think there was considerable bunk to the theory that left-handed hitters are weak against southpaw pitching.

Gasoline in Storage and the Motor Car

MUCH has been said of the enormous stocks of gasoline in storage, but very little has been said of this storage as it compares to the number of cars in commission.

Recent statistics compiled by the American Petroleum Institute comparing the number of motor cars in commission with the amount of gasoline in storage, show that there was less gasoline per car in storage June 1 of this year than at any similar period during the last 5 years, with the exception of 1920.

Year	Autos reg. Jan. 1	Stocks June 1	Gallons per car
1918	4,983,340	460,637,479	92.4
1919	6,146,617	594,035,688	96.6
1920	7,558,948	577,671,795	76.4
1921	9,211,295	800,495,787	86.9

Average 1918 to 1921			87.2

Notwithstanding the fact that the crude oil production is very heavy at this time, the rapid increase in the production of automobiles and other automotive machinery has created a demand which already is greater than the increased supply.

The current output of the several large refineries of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) supplemented by the reserves now on hand, enables the Company to guarantee that the public shall have a steady, dependable supply of Red Crown Gasoline at its command.

Because of its size, its progressive and efficient management, its ample resources and unrivaled facilities, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is able to provide the needful amounts of petroleum products to supply the vast demands made upon it. Its manufacturing facilities are planned to anticipate these needs years in advance and always are ready for service. Its constantly expanding distribution system is growing as the need for this service grows. Even in the remote corners of the 40 states served by this Company, the dark green tank wagon is a familiar and welcome visitor.

No matter how the production of crude oil has fluctuated, no matter how urgent the demand nor how limited the supply, motorists will recall that not once in the most stringent emergencies of the past has the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) through any fault of its own, failed to supply their essential needs. This Company has every confidence that its future record of service will be equally satisfactory.

WHEAT VALUES SHOW GAINS; GOOD DEMAND

MARKET TREND IS IRREGULAR

(By the Associated Press)

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Wheat values took an upward swing at the start here today in sympathy with an advance in Liverpool. The strength in the Chicago markets late yesterday was reflected on the other side of the Atlantic today and was responsible for the firmness there. There was some short covering here during the early dealings and it took but little commission selling to make reaction, the market easing off quickly. There was a good demand for cash wheat from the second crop for export and some sales were reported made overnight but the quantities were not given. Receipts of wheat here today were 448,000 bushels. The opening which varied from 1/2 to 1/4 higher with September $1.01 1/2 to $1.01 1/4 and December $1.03 to $1.02 1/2 was followed by a slight general setback all around.

Wheat fluctuated rapidly within a wide range and rallied sharply toward the finish. An oversold condition was disclosed when values started upward. Covering by shorts was general and offerings were light on the way up. The close was strong, values showing a net gain of 1/4 to 1/2 with September $1.02 1/2 to $1.02 1/4 and December $1.03 1/2 to $1.03 1/4.

Offerings of light wheat were light. The opening which varied from unchanged figures to half cent higher with September 59 1/2 to 60, was followed by a moderate decline on all deliveries. Oats were dull. After starting, unchanged figures to 1/4 lower with September 31 to 31 1/2, the market held close to the initial range. Provisions were weak in line with lower hog values.

General short covering was in on corn and with an oversold condition and stop orders, prices advanced and advanced sharply the close being strong, with values ranging from 1/4 to 1/2 higher with September 40 1/2 to 41 1/2.

Scarcity of offerings accentuated the rapid rise in special stocks in the final hour. The close of the market was strong, with values ranging from 1/4 to 1/2 higher with September 40 1/2 to 41 1/2.

The bearishness resented a temporary advantage at the opening of today's stock market because of the weakened technical position and disturbing overnight developments in the railway strike situation. Strong support predicated on a sustained investment demand set in, however, the market reversing its course and carrying many stocks to new high levels for the year. Sales approximated 1,000,000 shares.

VOTING BECOMES MORE SPIRITED AS BIG VOTE OFFER NEARS CLOSE

Candidates of Tribune's Campaign Strive to Make Best Showing Possible by Saturday Night; Race for Automobiles and Other Awards Reaches Most Exciting Stage

Candidates of the Tribune's great $100,000 prize campaign are striving with all the energy at their command to make the best possible showing during the 200,000 extra vote offer, which will expire at midnight, Saturday. It takes only $30 in new subscriptions to constitute a club worth 200,000 extra votes. This is the best extra vote offer of the entire campaign, candidates are determined to reap the full advantage of this voting opportunity at the beginning of the campaign.

Every $30 worth of subscriptions is a big step toward that wonderful fund on which, one of the four other luxurious motor cars among these who are diligently striving for the full benefit of the 200,000 extra vote offer are many who desire to become the owner of any one of the five big cars. These cars are of well known makes and each has its hosts of users and friends.

Voting Is Spirited

When the list appears again it will show that these are busy days. Voting is beginning in a spirited manner and the rate at which the candidates are progressing presages some eventful weeks to come. As it stands now, it is possible for any energetic candidate to quickly catch up with leading contenders by taking a few subscriptions—an hour or so of real effort will turn the trick.

Candidates should not be satisfied with one $30 club, but should go right on and secure just as many as possible for their efforts will be better rewarded on this period of the race than at any other time during the campaign.

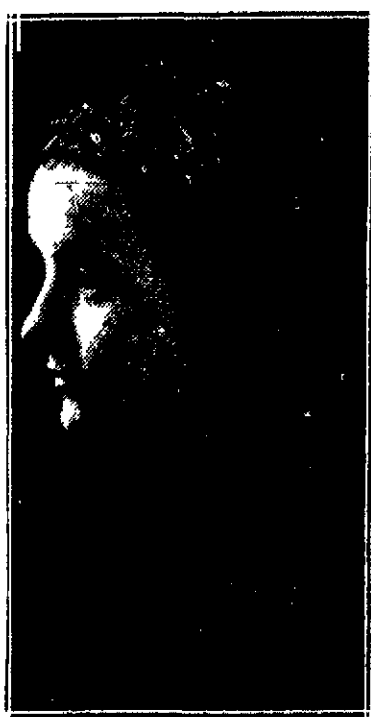

Postoffice Closing Time

The campaign department will be open until 9 o'clock Saturday evening. Candidates in district 2 may mail their subscriptions and remittances up to postoffice closing time Saturday, and they will be counted when received at this office. This allows workers living outside Bismarck the same length of time to work on the largest extra vote offer as those living in the city.

Now for four busy days. You have too much at stake to take any chances of losing an actual fortune and you can well afford to let some of your regular duties wait and utilize every minute that stands between you and postoffice closing time Saturday evening.

Go after subscriptions "hot and heavy." Don't let a single order get away from you. Friends who have already given you a subscription can

WOMAN INJURED IN JUMP FROM MOVING AUTO

Mrs. C. S. Fossum—Sustains Dislocated Ankle and Fracture in Right Foot

Mrs. C. S. Fossum sustained a dislocated ankle and fracture of several bones in her left foot yesterday when she either jumped or was thrown from an automobile. She started to step out when it started to move down an incline on a hillside near spring at Sims.

Mr. and Mrs. George Nolan of Dickinson and Mrs. Fossum and son, Charles, were motoring to Dickinson in the Nolan car when the accident happened. The party had parked the car on the top of a raised piece of ground near a spring. All the occupants of the car except Mrs. Fossum had descended from the car to get a drink at the spring. As she started to step out the car began to move down the hill and she apparently jumped. Whether the injuries were the result of a wheel of the car passing over Mrs. Fossum's foot or due to the force of the jar when she jumped or was thrown by the car as it was moving Mrs. Nolan said she could not tell.

The party returned to the city after the accident. Mrs. Fossum who is a sister of Mr. Nolan, was taken to the St. Alexis hospital for treatment.

County Division for Northern Part of State Planned

(By the Associated Press)

Minot, N. D., Aug. 22.—A county division election affecting Ward, Burke, and Renville counties is in prospect if a movement originating at Kenmare gains headway required to get on the ballot at the November election. A realignment of boundaries by adding to Ward county the six southern townships of Renville county and the consolidation of Burke, Renville and the "Goose Neck" of Ward county into a single subdivision to be known as Lake County is sought in the proposition.

Revival of county division recalls the election November 3, 1908 at which Imperial Ward was divided, creating Mountrail, Burke, Renville and the present boundaries of Ward. Three separate propositions were submitted, complications being so numerous, and alignments so overlapping that he present unique outline was the result.

Talk of consolidation of two counties has aroused speculation as to county seat. It would appear that Bowbells, Mohall and Kenmare would doubtless become rivals for the honor.
